

Your Role in F.A.I.T.H. CO-OP

FAITH Homeschoolers is a Christian Co-Op open to any family who is currently homeschooling their children or contemplating homeschooling their children. We are a group of homeschool parents working together to organize classes that will benefit both homeschooled children and their parents. The entire organization is a co-operative of individuals who have the best interest of the homeschooling community in their hearts. In other words, for the co-op to be successful and a blessing for all who attend, all must take seriously their role in it.

As we look to the needs of the 2015 Fall Semester, there are a few different options for parent volunteers.

Parents can volunteer for 1 hour a week, for 10 consecutive weeks. This can be done either the first hour of Co-Op or the second hour of Co-Op. Your assignment will run the entire semester and you will be in the same class for the entire semester. In case of an absence, you can fulfill your commitment in another class at a different time.

For those parents who have only high school students attending who drive themselves to Co-Op, you may choose to have your children volunteer on your behalf. If your children are attending both hours or second hour only, they can fulfill this by helping with set-up/tear down and clean up each week for the entire semester. If tear down/clean-up does not fit their schedule because they only take a first hour class, then they can volunteer during the second hour of classes or arrive 30 minutes early the entire semester to help set-up.

If you do not have a child in nursery and/or preschool, you may choose to pay a $75 volunteer exemption fee which will excuse you from volunteering for the semester.

Thank you for being an integral part of the home school community and of F.A.I.T.H. Co-op by fulfilling your volunteer commitment .

Parents of infants and preschoolers, for the 2015 Fall Semester, if you have a child in the nursery or preschool we ask that you stay on campus the entire time your child is in care/class. This is for the safety of your child and the consideration of the classroom workers/volunteers. The Parent's Class is available for your encouragement and training in your homeschooling journey and fellowship with others who are also on this journey.

Thank you for your help in making our Co-Op run efficiently!
